Shively Interested in Development of Lakes- To-Gulf Highway

The citizens of Shively should be vitally interested in the plans to improve the Great Lakes to Gulf Highway of which 31 W. through 10th St. is part, according to Mr. J. A. Howison, who is giving much time to the work of promoting co-operation with the officials of the Great Lakes to Gulf Highway Association as a matter of public concern.

At a meeting held in New Albany, Tuesday evening, plans for a projected four-lane expansion from Niles, Michigan to New Albany were discussed and attention directed to the immense benefits secured to property owners, residents and business projects along this highway by reason of the increased traffic.

Already 31 W. has been designated a national highway by the War Department and undoubtedly this will mean continued improvement and country-wide attention to this route south of the north.

"It really seems incredible to me," said Mr. Lison, "that others have not been impressed as I have. Of course, it is likely that even without planning a certain development will begin to occur. However, there is a great difference between intelligent, guided planning and haphazard growth."

When asked to estimate the probable extent of such planning, the expert declared he was no prophet, but that offhand he would suggest that provisions should be made for a town of 5,000, with a possible expansion to double that number.

"It would depend, of course, on the amount of cooperation from property owners and much common sense effort. Mind you, I said it could be done, but I still wonder why it has not already been started."

Mr. Lison was accompanied by his wife and daughter, who were much interested in the swimming pool and recreational features at Valley Hill School.

MISS ELIZABETH WYATT, Valley Station, was among those graduating from the University of Kentucky, summer session, last Friday evening. Miss Wyatt received a degree in Master of Arts.

THE DIXIE HIGHWAY

A new era of development is opening on this national traffic route in Kentucky.

With the completion of the four-lane stretch of concrete in Jefferson County and the contemplated expansion of Fort Knox it is evident that the already high rate of travel will be greatly increased.

Already the signs of coming developments are perceptible in the new school building, churches, store buildings and homes that are recently completed in the course of construction.

It is with an appreciation of these forward strides in this community that we devote this section so prominently to the

and invite our readers to become acquainted with the opportunities that are offered those contemplating building homes or entering business in Jefferson County.

Ripley To Broadcast From Mammoth Cave Sept. 13

Mammoth Cave, Kentucky's greatest natural wonder, is getting a big play this summer from the major radio chains and millions are hearing about the vast caverns known throughout the world as the most extensive and the most spectacularly beautiful anywhere.

Two radioacts, one from WLW, Cincinnati, July 7, and the other from WCKY, Covington, July 13, already have sent scores of visitors to the new National Park this summer who never saw its attractions, both above and below ground, before and arrangements now pending appear certain to give much additional impetus to tourist travel Mammoth Cave.

Probably tops among attractions of its kind in the radio world, Robert Ripley's Believe-It-Or-Not Show, featuring "Seeing American With Ripley," is tentatively scheduled for a half-hour broadcast from Mammoth Cave, September 13. This program would include a performance with 14 members of Ripley's famous cast, local Mammoth Cave talent, music and a big name orchestra from New York. The broadcast will be made in the Cave.

The Jeffersonian Advocates--

Full appreciation of the extraordinary scenic and historical advantages of Jefferson County and her institutions.

The preservation of the old traditions of Kentucky hospitality: of personal honor and integrity.

A recognition of the position of our farmers in the economic life of the community and the vital need of restoring profitable returns to the producers of life's necessities, if our whole community is to advance and prosper.

Heard On The DIXIE HIGHWAY

(Compiled through the courtesy of W. L. Wilkerson.)

"That means fight where I come from!"

"Well, why don't you fight them?"

Joe: Wouldn't your mother be angry if she saw you in those "terrible" shorts?

Joe: I expect she would. They're hers.

Do you object to kissing, Mehtab?

That is something I never do.

Kissed Mehtab?

No, objected, Joshua.

"Why is a corset like an ash cart?"

"Because it goes around gathering up the waist."

Two dairies were rivals for trade. One of the companies engaged a devil motorist to drive around town with large signs reading:

"This dare devil drinks our milk!"

The rival company came out with placards twice as large reading:

"You don't have to be a dare devil to drink our milk!"

Trouble an' Sunshine

by Lawrence Hawthorne

It takes a bit o' trouble now an' 'n then To help us live the ways o' life. I guess; A spell o' cloudy weather teaches men To understand what brings 'em happiness. No person ever has seen it rain Without the sunshine comin' later on; But some folks get the notion grief an' pain Are here 't stay, an' every joy is gone.

Seems like there's plenty more o' cheer than care For them that keep their spirits here an' true; An' 'clouds don't often cover all the blue! An' so, a bit o' trouble now an' then Should help us prize our blessing all the more; An' when good-luck is greetin' us again We'll find things ever brighter than before!

Trouble an' Sunshine

by Lawrence Hawthorne

It takes a bit o' trouble now an' 'n then To help us live the ways o' life. I guess; A spell o' cloudy weather teaches men To understand what brings 'em happiness. No person ever has seen it rain Without the sunshine comin' later on; But some folks get the notion grief an' pain Are here 't stay, an' every joy is gone.

Seems like there's plenty more o' cheer than care For them that keep their spirits here an' true; An' 'clouds don't often cover all the blue! An' so, a bit o' trouble now an' then Should help us prize our blessing all the more; An' when good-luck is greetin' us again We'll find things ever brighter than before!

Farm Bureau News From County, State and NationTest Shows Corn-Fed
Lamb Most Profitable

Corn-fed lambs gained as fast on slightly less feed and at lower cost than lambs fed a grain mixture, in a test at the Kentucky Agriculture Experiment Station. Thirty bred yearling yearlings were divided into two equal lots and fed identical amounts of alfalfa hay and shelled corn plus what grazing they could get from a mediocre stand of bluegrass.

The lambs from one lot were creep-fed cracked corn, the grain being kept before them all the time. The other lot was self-fed mixture of 9 parts of cracked corn, 3 parts of rolled oats and one part of pea-sized linseed meal.

The corn-fed lambs finished at much lower cost, and just as fast as the group getting the mixture. There was no significant difference in the finish.

ORGANIZATION HELPS IMPROVEMENT PROGRAM

Lacking organization through which farm people could work co-operatively, the Morgan County Farm and Home Improvement Association was formed in Eastern Kentucky. Each community in the county has a council, the chairmen of which make up the County Council.

Membership of the county organization now stands several hundred and is made up of "every citizen of the county who desires to have a part in the improvement of the farms and homes of the county and who is willing to co-operate with others in obtaining these goals," says the constitution.

More than 600 people attended a summer meeting of the association at a farm where phosphate and other means of improving fertility are being tested. Yandall Wabber, the county farm agent, is ex-officio member of the county council.

GUY BLAKEMAN of Adair County burned 18 tons of lime. He made a square stack, alternating layers of logs and limestone, and then set the logs afire. He is planning to spread the lime on the soil.

HARDIN COUNTY FARMERS received 2011 tons of phosphate in the 1940 agriculture conservation program. Orders now are being taken for next year's program, with five carloads already ordered for early fall shipment.

A. C. GLASSCOCK of Marion County threshed 210 bushels of Buhio rye from 455 acres, after grazing it during early spring with 60 ewes and their lambs and 100 head of calves. The rye made a poor start last fall but stood out heavily.

CHARLES CALDWELL of Boyle County tried using vitamin B 1 tablets in the water when setting tobacco, thinking it might stimulate growth, vigor and resistance to disease. Tobacco so treated in 10 inches of earth, but untreated tobacco at blooming time.

MORE THAN 300 FARMERS have signed in an electric co-operative organization in Letcher County. Plans call for at least 600 members and 150 miles of line, it is reported.

THE GARDEN

STORAGE FOR WINTER VEGETABLES. By John S. Gardner, Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Covered, so far, has been the storing of the "warm" vegetables, and that of the "cool" ones in stone or concrete "caves" or "root cellars." Today, "pit" storage and that in modified cave structures will be discussed, and the end series.

Many persons who are not in position to build caves of permanent construction may profit from the services of simple structures, but made after the same specifications, and whose handling is the same.

For example, the sidewalls may be timber covered with sheathing or with tin. The roof may be of timber rafters laid close and framed into a timber ridgepole. The whole may be covered with old pieces of tin (the writer has seen automobile body siding so used), to make the roof steep, and that in modified cave structures will be discussed, and the end series.

Another form is a pit, 6 feet deep, its sides cribbed to prevent caving-in, and a tent-shaped structure over it, whose roof construction is of timber laid side by side, covered with tin, earth and sod. The ends of the "tent" may be of timber, sheathed and covered with roofing paper, or with tin. Entrance to the "cave" is by a ladder, placed just within a door in either end of the "tent." The passing off of stale air is accomplished by an outlet vent in the ridge, its dimensions in inches half those of the floor in feet. The first air intake is a rough-lumber tube whose cross-section is the same as that of the outlet, and set in a corner away from the door-end and clearing the floor by few inches and extending a foot or so above ground.
